

TO YOU...

This letter is written to the most beloved person who made me strong when I'm weak, happy when I'm sad, held my hand when I failed, made it easy when it was hard and all these are done in a very short period of time, and also the person who thought me even in her busy time, who lend her hand readily whenever I needed it. This to that beautiful person written from the core of my heart but don't worry t is not a love letter, instead it is a letter which means a lot to me.

I met you on a busy day. I was a bit afraid how people around me behave with me. But when talking to you I felt like something different. I was not afraid, but it was like talking to someone who is already close to me. Thanks for understanding me, tolerating me, and always giving me your best company, and never left me alone and also being on my side even in my bad times. I crossed my hurdles as a fresher by having the greatest advices and support given by you.

I feel grateful for having you in my life. The time we spent together might be less but I'm thankful all those memorable days and nights which were filled with many smiles, fun, love, and most importantly the bond we have.

Remember our first swiggy order, the exciting candle light dinner, the walks around the college and hostel, our first fight... etc. I never thought that someone would become very close to me in a very short period of time. And the great part was tolerating me with all your patience and being on my side. And also, the care you took like my mother when I was very sick and when I truly needed her. I'm truly grateful to you.

And I'm also very thankful for celebrating my birthday very grandly which I didn't even expect. Thanks for your hard work in collecting my pictures, decorating the place, and what not, there are many surprises I received that day. It was truly an amazing day to me which I will remember till my last breath.

At last, I would like to say thanks for taking very good care of me and I'm sorry for those times when I made you uncomfortable. I truly owe you a lot. Love you to the moon and back.

....From the one always makes noise....
